EPISODES: 8 x 60 min

SLOT: Monday 9pm

ORIGINAL BROADCASTER: TV5 Finland (Discovery Networks)

PRODUCER: Rabbit Films

Battle of the Hits is a weekly prime time music competition series that dives into the stories of a nation's most beloved songs, and gives contemporary young artists a chance to reimagine them. Every country has those legendary songs that everybody knows! In this program, we pay a tribute to some of the country's greatest ever domestic hits by giving them a modern upgrade.

The show is hosted by a well-known talented musician, who is joined each week by a different challenger, a trendy young singer. The task at hand is simple: which one of the two artists manages to make the more popular cover version of their chosen evergreen hit and bring it back to the top of the charts? The episode's challenger gets to pick their own song, but also a song for the host to be surprised. The artists will then embark on a journey to find out the intriguing story of the original hits by meeting the people behind their hit.

At the end of each episode, both artists will perform the new version of their song for their fans and family members at an intimate concert. After each episode, the two songs are released for downloading/streaming on different platforms. An hour before the following week's episode, there is a pre-show where the artists go through the results, social media commentary and re-perform acoustic versions of the songs.

RELATIVELY CLOSE

GENRE: Factual Entertainment

EPISODES: 10 x 60 min

SLOT: Sunday 9pm

ORIGINAL BROADCASTER: TV5 Finland (Discovery Networks)

PRODUCER: Rabbit Films

Relatively Close is an emotional studio-based factual format, where a famous parent-child hosting team gets personal with celebrities about their family life. Each episode features two guests, who are 'relatively close' to each other. What's important is that they share a unique bond such as a TV host and her daughter who had experienced a great loss together. At least one of the them is a well-known celebrity.

At first, the famous host interviews the non-famous guest, and then the non-famous host interviews the famous guest. The pairs are then brought together to discuss their relationship. Having one host who has experienced fame, allows for the celebrities to open up like never before. And having one host who is less known, is able to bring a contrasting perspective. It's not therapy, but it does give a chance to close old wounds and to say the things that were never said before.

Using e-mail, text messages, social media and a special dedicated phone line, people from all over the country have poured their hearts out to the panel. All of the worries are real, coming straight from the viewers. Some are age-old, but some so awkwardly personal that the panellists must reveal something about themselves as well.

Every week three panellists, and a special celebrity guest, try to answer to the given worries, usually with a big dose of humour. The panel consists of the wittiest and most sarcastic minds of the nation. And the weekly guests can vary from a pop star, to a well-known priest, to the former President of the country.

PRODUCER: Rabbit Films

What's the Word is a wonderfully fun word-guessing celebrity game show which is great to play along at home besides seeing the celebrities both struggle and succeed!

There are five celebrity contestants in each episode. The name of the game is that each player will in turn try to creatively explain a word by giving out clues so that as few of the contestants would guess the word. They really have to rack their brain by using clues, riddles, double-entendres and innuendo, to come up with the perfect wordplay to explain the word in question.

The scoring system sets the rules: if only ONE of the four contestants guesses the right answer, both the player and contestant receive 1000 points. If TWO of them guess the word right, 500 points is awarded to each, and if THREE contestants figure out the word, each contestant receives 300 points.

However, tactics are needed, since the player will lose 500 points if the clue is too difficult and none of the contestants guess the right word, or if the clue is too easy and all the contestants guess correctly. Whichever contestant gets the most points at the end of the episode, wins.
